Comments	M1	_____ would greatly benefit from additional support at home with his fluency, phonics, and science vocabulary skills. _____ is reading slightly below grade level expectation. _____ should be proud of his progress in mathematics and social studies. He actively participates in class and adds to all classroom discussions. We will gladly work in tandem with you to help develop the previously mentioned skills. With a strong partnership, _____ will make academic strides this year.
Comments	M2	Since the beginning of the school year, _____ has worked diligently to develop pertinent second grade skills, but still could benefit from additional support at home in two areas. One, proofreading his written work for conventional and grammatical errors. Two, emotional rebounding: being able to quickly recover from an emotionally challenging situation. We are excited about _____'s strong number sense, mathematical computation skills, and his ability to craft comprehensive literary responses. _____ does a wonderful job of incorporating taught writing skills into his pieces. We hope that _____ continues to strive for academic and social excellence as the end of the school year draws near.
Comments	M3	This year has gone by quickly, and I am sorry to see it end. This was an outstanding class and _____ was an important part of it. He is a positive young man that is a high achiever. His inquisitive and positive attitude added a bright spot to every day. _____ has great fluency, reading comprehension skills, and strong number sense. I highly urge _____ to work on developing his maturity and his ability to control his emotions in class. He needs to work on emotionally rebounding from emotionally challenging situations. He often allows his emotions to overshadow the wonderful quality of his work. Additionally, I would like for him to continue to develop his ability to edit his writing. I know that he will do well next year in third grade and I look forward to working with him in summer school. Have a great summer!
